

FAITH, SCHOLARSHIP & SERVICE

The Cornerstones of a Jesuit Education at Fordham Prep

Because of the variety of classes and co-curricular activities that Fordham Prep offered, I was able to explore many different academic subjects that appealed to me. Next year, I hope to continue my interest in economics with a minor in International Relations and perhaps attend business school after graduation.

Adrian Cacho '15, College of the Holy Cross '19

Adrian believes his experience at Fordham Prep as an Emmaus leader, his service trip to Ecuador and his work at the Prep's Summer Academy helped guide him to similar opportunities in college. He regularly volunteers at a program that sends Holy Cross students into the Worcester community to work with teens who need educational and social support. He has traveled to West Virginia for a spring break immersion program and is a key member of the Campus Activities Board. All of these experiences have broadened Adrian's worldview.

Fordham Prep prepares its students for success in college and beyond through rigorous coursework that includes:

- Classical and Modern Languages: Latin, Greek, Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian and Spanish
- Honors, Advanced and 17 AP courses
- Electives that supplement a strong core curriculum such as Biochemistry, Music Composition, Architectural Drawing, Computer Graphics and Java Programming
- Religious Studies grounded in Jesuit principles of faith and revelation, social justice and philosophy
- A broad spectrum of college-level courses at Fordham University

Adrian is just one of our many young alumni who are academically strong, engaged members of their college communities. Each year they return to Rose Hill during breaks to share their experiences and advice with seniors. This year, Prep students attended alumni panels and met one-on-one with students from Vanderbilt, Boston College, Colgate, UPenn, Holy Cross, Washington & Lee, University of Maryland and UConn, among others.

Members of the Class of 2015 return to host a college panel for seniors.

The Class of 2016 is continuing the Prep's tradition of placing students in the nation's finest colleges and universities. Members of this year's graduating class will attend 212 schools, including the following:

Fordham	Syracuse
Boston College	Scranton
Cornell	Notre Dame
Fairfield	Georgetown
Villanova	Dartmouth
Elon	UPenn
Loyola Maryland	Harvard
NYU	Marquette
Princeton	U.S. Military Academy
