A PUBLICATION FOR THE ALUMNI, PARENTS AND FRIENDS OF FORDHAM PREP

Welcome Father Devron

Rev. Christopher Devron, SJ is a Jesuit priest of the New York Province of the Society of Jesus. The middle of three children, he grew up in Palatine, a northwest suburb of Chicago, where he attended public schools until his undergraduate education at the University of Notre Dame. At Notre Dame, he earned a bachelor's in arts, with a double major in philosophy and government, and a concentration in PPE (Philosophy, Politics and Economics).

After being graduated in 1989, he came to New York City to work as a volunteer teacher at Cardinal Spellman High School in the Bronx through a program of the Archdiocese of New York. He returned to Notre Dame to pursue graduate studies in theology, and then entered the New York Province as a Jesuit novice in 1991. In 1993, he took first vows, and began graduate studies in philosophy and theology at Loyola University Chicago, where he earned a master's in the history of philosophy.

Between 1995-96, he served as executive director of the Inner-City Teaching Corps (ICTC) in Chicago. Founded by Mr. Pat Ryan, Jr. in 1993, the ICTC recruits and places recent college graduates as teachers in inner-city schools throughout Chicago. Fr. Devron solidified the ICTC's early success as a pilot program so that it could improve and sustain its mission. He helped create its first advisory board and a partnership with the Loyola University School of Education so that volunteers could receive graduate credit for their professional development as ICTC volunteers. Fr. Devron worked closely with the Superintendent of Schools for the Archdiocese of Chicago, principals at more than a dozen inner-city parochial schools on Chicago's west and south sides, and the Big Shoulders Fund. He then led a search to identify a long-term ICTC director.

Returning to the New York City for two years (1996-98), he taught at the Gonzaga Middle School Program for Boys in Harlem—a Nativity Miguel Model School—and created a scholarship program to assist Gonzaga students attending private high schools. The following year, he was assigned as director of the Loyola Youth Center in Crown Heights, Brooklyn.

In 1998, he returned to graduate studies in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where he earned a Masters in Divinity at the Weston Jesuit School of Theology. He also earned a Masters in Theology in African American spirituality, through course work at the Harvard Divinity School and the Institute for Black Catholic Studies at Xavier University in New Orleans.

In 2001, he was ordained a Roman Catholic priest at the Fordham University Church. For the next five years he worked as the founding director of REACH (Recruiting Excellence for Academics in Catholic High Schools). REACH, an initiative of Regis High School, identifies, recruits and prepares academically gifted middle school boys who could not otherwise afford a Catholic, private secondary education, and assists their families with scholarship opportunities at Regis, Fordham Preparatory School, Xavier High School, The Loyola School and other top high schools in New York City.

Fr. Devron interacted with the strategic planning and education committees of the Regis Board of Trustees, regularly presenting to them the progress and impact of REACH. Working with the Regis development office, Fr. Devron created a development strategy for REACH, wrote foundation proposals, and frequently met with foundation officers and individual donors to the program. REACH—which includes a summer residential component at the University of Scranton (Scranton, PA)—currently enrolls over 100 students from every borough. Now ten years old, REACH has helped dozens of young people from New York City gain access to more than several million dollars in academic scholarships and financial aid at Catholic high schools throughout the city. The first REACH graduates are now attending colleges and universities throughout the country.

During his tenure at REACH, Father Devron also taught theology and worked as a campus minister and chair of the committee on diversity at Regis; developed a mentoring program for REACH students; and served as a weekend associate at the Church of St. Joseph in Harlem, one of a handful of historically black Catholic churches in Manhattan. He has served as a part-time chaplain at The Marymount School and the Notre Dame Alumni Club of New York City.

In 2008, Fr. Devron was appointed the founding president of Christ the King Jesuit College Preparatory School, on Chicago's West side—the 20th Cristo Rey model school opened since the first one (Cristo Rey Jesuit High School) was founded in 1996. Christ the King is a Catholic Jesuit, independent, coeducational, college preparatory school for students from families on Chicago's west side who would otherwise not have access to a private secondary school education. Sponsored by the Chicago-Detroit Province Jesuits, Christ the King offers students a strong academic and spiritual foundation integrated with a Corporate Work-Study Program in a safe, disciplined, faith-based and caring environment. The school's program is designed to foster each student's intellectual and spiritual growth built on a deepening relationship with Jesus Christ. Christ the King seeks to inspire and prepare its students to become creative leaders: "men and women for others" who are committed to work for justice in the Church, in the civic community, and in their chosen profession. During his tenure at Christ the King, Fr. Devron presided over the construction of its new campus—a $30MM facility—and steady growth in enrollment, board of trustees, and faculty and staff.

On March 4, 2011, Fr. Devron professed solemn vows as a Jesuit in the Chapel of St. Ignatius Loyola at Christ the King Jesuit College Prep (Chicago, IL).

Fr. Devron serves on the following boards: Loyola Academy (Wilmette, IL); Loyola University Chicago (on which he chairs the Student Development Committee and has been appointed to the Executive Committee). He served as a board member for the UNO Charter School Network and was a member of Rahm Emanuel's Commission on Child Safety Zones.

He has led workshops and retreats on school diversity for the Jesuit Secondary Education Association, the New York Association of Independent Schools, the Canisius High School Board of Trustees (Buffalo, NY), and The Loyola School (New York, NY). He was appointed a special adjunct professor of sociology at St. Joseph's University (Philadelphia, PA), where in the summer of 1998 he was part of a team of instructors who taught a traveling course on the history and spirituality of the U.S. Civil Rights Movement. Articles authored by Father Devron have been published in America magazine, the Tablet and the Journal of Popular Culture and BustedHalo.com.

Chaplain's Corner Being True to Oneself

Fr. Don Devine, S.J., Chaplain

In our Scripture studies in the seminary, we learned the importance of hospitality in the Israelite community. Abram, way back in Genesis 18 .1-15, ran out from his tent to welcome three strangers, entreated them to rest and accept a little water, hastened to find his wife Sarah and told her to make some bread, ran to his flock to find a tender calf and gave it to his servant who hurried to prepare it. They must all have been out of breath when Abram finally took cream, nuts and the calf he had prepared and laid all of this humbly before the strangers. Talk about service and hospitality!

The strangers, who were angels in disguise, promised Abram that a year later his wife would have a son in spite of his old age and the fact that Sarah's child-bearing years were behind her. What a wonderful gift for showing kindness to strangers. Martha did the same thing for Jesus in Luke 10. 38-42. And what was her reward? She did what was normally expected when an unannounced visitor arrived. She welcomed and fed him. Why the rebuke, gentle as it must have been, rather than the anticipated praise and gratitude? What did she do to deserve this?

I personally believe Martha would have received sincere gratitude and thanks from Our Lord if she hadn't criticized her sister Mary for not helping her serve the meal. I don't think Jesus' visit was to find a free gourmet meal. He simply wanted to relax with special friends, which the two sisters and their brother Lazarus were. Mary apparently sensed His mood and sat at His feet to be nourished and consoled by His wisdom and conversation. She had made the better choice on this occasion.

A mother of ten suggests another scenario for our reflection on this scene. Picture Mary spilling out her worries to Jesus: concerns about Lazarus' health, the difficulty of finding a good husband, arguments with Martha, troubling spiritual questions. Meanwhile, Jesus can hear Martha in the kitchen, quietly organizing a simple, healthy meal, singing softly, obviously enjoying preparing food for people she loves. He turns to Mary and says, "Mary, Mary, you are anxious and upset about so many things. How often do I have to say over and over again: "Don't worry, do not be anxious?"

If we combine both stories, Jesus isn't telling Martha to get out of the kitchen and Mary to stop sitting as His feet. Rather, it seems to me, He is encouraging each of them not to fuss too much over trivial matters. Both Martha and Mary should relax with their guest and listen to Him, both in the living room and at the dinner table. This happens in the one other Martha incident in the gospels in John 11.1-44, well worth rereading.

This miraculous scene occurs only in the gospel according to John. When informed that Lazarus "the man you love is ill", Jesus delays two days before leaving for Bethany. When told that Jesus has arrived, Martha leaves the mourners with Mary at the burial site and goes to Jesus to remonstrate with Him for being late. Then Martha told Mary Jesus was there, Mary got up quickly and made the same assertion as her sister; "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not had died." One can see why Jesus loved them so – different but trusting, instinctive and direct, loving friends in the deepest and fullest sense of the word. If Lazarus was like them, and he most likely was, we can see why Jesus was in tears at the tomb. We each love and serve in our unique way – thanks be to God! Jesus never asks to try to be someone else – He could have made us that way. Rather, He wants us to follow our heart, to whisper our love, to sing our song and to be ourselves.

10,000 PB & J's My Summer Learning How to Make a Difference

Michael Viele '01

In March of 2013, while anxiously planning the upcoming Cardboard City Night, my mentor group and I encountered a dilemma. We were in need of a guest speaker who would help bring home awareness of the homeless and share with us the opportunities out there for us to start something that matters. A week or so later, I met P.J. Collins, an entrepreneur, whose father Patrick graduated from the Prep in 1967, my life and the lives of my students was forever changed. Mr. Collins told myself, 45 students and six faculty members about a non-profit he created known as 10,000 PB&J's.

The mission of 10,000 PB&J's is to provide not only meals, but also compassion and conversation to those in need. Each Sunday evening, people from all walks of life meet at Patrick's Pub in White Plains. After a brief discussion, an assembly line is formed, and peanut butter and jelly sandwiches are made. At the end of the assembly line, two volunteers bag the meals and also add in a bottle of water and three Hershey kisses. Each night the teams make around 500 sandwiches. Once the bags are complete, teams are formed and we all travel to various pre-determined routes in NYC. This summer colleagues Chris Hemsley, Matt Bobo and new Prep President Father Chris Devron all joined me on this incredible outreach opportunity.

After much discussion with Collins and Hemsley, we are very excited to bring 10,000 PB&J's to Fordham Prep. We will be doing four separate runs right out of the Commons. Our freshman classes will be required to participate in one element of the process. That may include fundraising, sandwich making or delivery. As many are aware, Fordham Prep has a rich history of service and outreach. Bringing 10,000 PB&J's to the Bronx and having Fordham Prep as our home base will only strengthen and further grow that commitment. We are currently scouting out areas around our Fordham Prep campus to provide the meals to those in need. Many faculty members and alumni alike have already expressed interest in helping. If you or someone you know would like to help please feel free to email me at vielem@fordhaprep.org for more information.

The President's Report

It is indeed a privilege to write my first Ramview report as the 35th President of Fordham Preparatory School.

Though I've been at the Prep for only two months, it feels much longer—largely because of the warm welcome extended to me by so many of you, which makes me feel already at home in the Fordham Prep community. Whether you are a parent, faculty or staff member, student, an alumnus or a friend, I want to engage your energy and vision as we build our mission of faith, scholarship and service (see “Engagement,” below). So far, I have had nearly 50 one-on-one meetings to enlist your ideas as I form a learning agenda to establish my leadership. I work with an “open door,” and I invite you to call, write or make an appointment to meet with me so I can continue to learn and grow on the job.

Many have asked me to describe where I intend to focus my energy and attention as I move into my new role as president. I want to share with you the “E’s” that form the basis of my focus:

First and foremost, a school is only vibrant if it continues to recruit and attract students who reflect its historic mission. Enrollment will be a major focus of my leadership. Part of enrollment success is a “numbers game,” but, as the saying goes, we want “quality, not just quantity.” Enrollment quality at Fordham Prep means something very specific: our school is blessed to occupy a unique market niche because it brings together a genuinely diverse group of young men representing many different communities, backgrounds, races, cultures, ethnicities and socioeconomic classes. In fact, as I meet with our alumni, they inevitably tell me one of the aspects of their Prep education that they most cherish was learning from—and becoming friends and teammates with—peers who came from backgrounds different than their own. These experiences form a critical value proposition underlying a Fordham Prep education: The Fordham Prep alumnus enters an increasingly diverse and even globalized workforce with an awareness and a cultural competency which give him a competitive advantage.

However, our diverse enrollment isn't a result of a simplistic “check-the-box” approach in our admissions process. Rather, it happens because, for generations, the sons of newly arrived immigrants and families who could not otherwise afford a private education have aspired to become Fordham Prep students. Reflecting this history, I'm thrilled that this year fully one-third of our freshman class—the Class of 2017—comes from the borough of the Bronx. This percentage of Bronx students has been a strategic goal for Fordham Prep for the past several years.

In order to sustain this unique diversity, Fordham Prep must build its Endowment, which is the second “E” on which I will focus. When St. Ignatius Loyola agreed to found Jesuit high schools in 16th Century Europe, he prohibited them from charging tuition, so that they could serve the rich and poor alike.

Today, the complex demands of our economy require our families to pay tuition. Even as tuition increases, it still cannot cover our costs. Our Annual Fund provides an important source of revenue that bridges the gap, and I urge you to support it.

However, we cannot simply rely on escalating tuition and ever-increasing development goals to fund operations. A significantly larger endowment is the only solution to this problem. It will guarantee that any bright young man who qualifies for a Fordham Prep education will be able to afford one, regardless of family income. Endowment growth will preserve our historic mission and enhance our educational outcomes for all students.

Growing our enrollment and endowment will require that we come together like never before, and become more deeply engaged in the work of our common mission. Therefore, the third “E” on which I will focus is Engagement. We cannot afford to sit idly by in an educational environment that is undergoing rapid changes and tectonic shifts. I want to help you feel passionate—part of the process—so that together, we may pursue continuous improvement in all aspects of school and institutional life, whether they involve classroom technology and student learning; college counseling; cocurricular activities and sports; alumni relations; fundraising; our physical plant or communicating our value proposition to our stakeholders. St. Ignatius Loyola called this “passion for improvement” striving for the “magis”—the “greater” good. The “magis” at Fordham Prep always invites us to deepen our commitment and innovate our methods to help our students achieve academic excellence, and become “men for others,” dedicated to God's greater glory.

Finally, as a Jesuit priest, my vocation is one of Encouragement. Ignatian spirituality is founded on the conviction that we can “find God in all things.” This is an extraordinary, transformational insight. It has the potential to revolutionize our minds and hearts. Yet, as I told each class of students during our morning assemblies recently, we can easily lose sight of God's love for us. I want to do whatever I can to help our students, our alumni, faculty and staff see God alive and active in their everyday lives; dealing with each of us directly and gently—“as a school master deals with his pupil” (St. Ignatius Loyola)—calling us to follow Jesus; giving us the humility to show mercy and the courage to work for justice; and uniting us through the Spirit in our common mission of Catholic Jesuit education.

Enrollment...Endowment...Engagement...Encouragement: All in the service of an overarching “E”: Education in the Jesuit tradition. I hope these “Five E's” excite you as much as they excite me!

As I continue to get to know many of the Fordham Prep community on a more personal level, please know that I pray for you daily. Please pray for me as well.

Rev. Christopher J. Devron, SJ
President

The Principal's Report

As the new school year gets underway, there is much for which we are grateful. Some 230 eager freshmen grace our corridors, bringing enthusiasm, intellectual and athletic abilities, and lots of energy. Seniors return as young men, displaying new-found maturity and assuming leadership roles throughout the building. Physical plant improvements continue, perhaps most notably in the Higgins Competitive Gym and the Leonard Theatre. The entire gymnasium has been painted, the stands repaired and motorized, the scoreboards replaced, and a beautiful wooden floor complete with colorful graphic designs has replaced the old rubber one. In the Theatre, the lights and the sound system have been upgraded, some seats replaced, and the stage itself has been refinished.

It may be, however, that the work which may well result in the greatest change and improvement is going on behind the scenes. We have decided that during the next academic year, we will institute a 1-1 program in which every student and faculty member will have an electronic device for use at home and in the classroom. Last year, we formed our Vanguard group, consisting of two tech savvy teachers from each department, the principal, two assistant principals, and the Technology Director. We spent many hours evaluating what kind of device our program would utilize and chose the tablet computer.

The Vanguard group then worked together for several weeks this summer. We began a review of programs and approaches to curriculum that will enable students with computers to improve their learning, to work more collaboratively, and to perform more evaluation and problem solving activities. We also traveled to Philadelphia for a day to visit a school which works in partnership with Microsoft and in which every student has a computer. We learned a lot. The Vanguard group will now lead a year-long preparation of the entire faculty for this transition to what is known as 1-1 computing, where each student and each teacher uses his or her own computer as one more tool in the learning process. It is worth noting that by our kick-off date of September 2014, the Prep will join at least 36 of the some 50 American Jesuit high schools which will already have some form of a one-to-one program.

We believe that the computer will create something of a paradigm shift in the classroom. Assignments can be more open-ended, learning can be more self-directed and sustained, students will have more opportunities to use preferred learning styles, and feedback can be more frequent and timely. Learning will become more personalized and engaging. The emphasis will be on higher-order content, complex skills such as synthesis, problem solving, and the integration of the two. Teachers' roles will, more than ever, include acting as guides and mentors. In the traditional classroom, students often come to class to receive information from the teacher. In a 1-1 classroom, the student obtains information in a myriad of ways, and students and teachers work collaboratively to create shared knowledge and hone higher order analytical skills.

To be clear, however, our Jesuit approach to education which has cura personalis (care of the individual) at its core will not change. More explicitly, the relationships between faculty and students, based on care and trust, will continue to be the driving dynamic of the Prep. It is through these relational dynamics in the classroom, on teams and clubs, and on retreats and in liturgies, that each student will discover who he is. He will develop the strength and tools he needs to grow more fully into his humanity, will come to recognize that God is present in all things making life both meaningful and purposeful, and will commit himself to using his talents to transform the world.

There is much to be done and the details will evolve as technology evolves, but we believe the quiet work of our faculty this year, led by the Vanguard group, will result in one of the most impactful changes at the Prep.

Fordham Preparatory School FACTS AT A GLANCE 2013-2014 ACADEMIC YEAR

Fordham Prep	Founded in 1841, Fordham Preparatory School is a four-year, Jesuit, all-male, Catholic, college preparatory school located on the 85-acre Rose Hill Campus of Fordham University. The Prep was the fifth Jesuit high school founded in the United States and is part of a network of 55 Jesuit high schools in the country. Today there are more than 2,000 Jesuit educational institutions in 56 countries around the world.
Enrollment	930 students – the majority of the students are from Westchester, the Bronx and Manhattan. The Prep also has students from Brooklyn and Queens; Long Island; Rockland, Putnam and Dutchess counties; and New Jersey and Connecticut; and a network of over 11,600 graduates.
Student Diversity	28% of the students have diverse backgrounds: 12% are Hispanic, 7% are multiracial, 6% are African American, and 3% are Asian.
Accreditation	New York State Board of Regents Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools
Membership	New York State Association of Independent Schools Jesuit Secondary Education Association
Ministry and Service	The Fordham Prep community seeks to foster knowledge and love of God and neighbor and welcomes the gifts that all members of the community contribute to the school’s mission. The Prep’s Campus Ministry Program includes a number of events, activities and retreats to nurture and strengthen the spiritual growth of Prep students and faculty. The Prep’s Christian Service Program provides the opportunity for students to put their faith into action through a four-year requirement and a number of activities and projects.
Academic	Our curriculum provides a full college preparatory education. The Prep also has 17 Advanced Placement courses. Qualified students can attend college classes at Fordham University and do research at the University’s library.
McNamara Library	The McNamara library has a collection of approximately 10,000 holdings, subscribes to 52 different online reference and research databases, and has access to circulating and reference electronic books.
Class of 2013	Typically, 99% of the Prep’s graduates attend college. Fifty-five percent of the Class of 2013 are enrolled in colleges listed as “Most” or “Highly” competitive by Barron’s Profiles of American Colleges. Among the 2013 graduates, the Prep had one National Merit Scholarship winner, two National Merit Scholarship finalists, seven National Merit Scholarship Commended Students (top 5% nationally of all students who took the PSAT in their junior year), one National Achievement finalist, one National Achievement Scholarship semi-finalist, and one National Achievement Outstanding Participant, one National AP Scholar, twenty-eight AP Scholars With Distinction, sixteen AP Scholars With Honor, and thirty-five AP Scholars.
Employees	116 employees, including 81 faculty members. The faculty members have an average of 19 years of teaching experience. 90% of the faculty have advanced degrees, including 5 with doctoral degrees. There are 8 Jesuits on the faculty and staff.
Cocurricular Activities	Fordham Prep sponsors more than 60 student clubs and activities, which are organized and run by faculty and students, and provide opportunities for the students to explore areas of particular interest to them. Sixty-eight percent of the students participate in at least one cocurricular activity. For aspiring artists, musicians, singers, and actors, the Prep has a large art studio, a band room, and the 1,000 seat Leonard Theater for plays and musicals. The Prep also organizes art shows for students, faculty and the Prep community to exhibit their work.
Athletics	The Prep has 38 interscholastic teams participating in 17 sports including: baseball, basketball, bowling, crew, cross country, football, golf, ice hockey, lacrosse, rugby, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field (indoor and outdoor), volleyball and wrestling. Sixty-eight percent of the students participate in at least one interscholastic sport.
Financial Aid/Scholarship	For the 2013-2014 fiscal year, more than $3.1 million has been committed for financial aid and scholarships for 420 students (45% of our student body).
Tuition	$17,560
Operating Budget	$17.2 million
Endowment	$21 million, as of June 30, 2013
Annual Fund/ Annual Scholarship	Contributions to the 2012-2013 Annual Fund totaled $1,888,625. In addition $344,931 was contributed for annual scholarships.
The Campaign for Fordham Prep	Fordham Prep recently completed a five-year $23 million capital campaign, Ensuring the Legacy. The campaign helped to create state-of-the-art science, music, art and fitness facilities, and increased the Prep’s endowment by over 25%.

Giving Participation Rates on the Rise at Fordham Prep

*Loyal Supportes and Volunteers
Enable Fordham to Continue to Grow*

Over the past four years Fordham Prep's giving participation rates, among alumni, parents and other constituent groups, have shown steady increases and, in some cases, have set school records: alumni – from 16% to 19%; Class Representatives from 70% to 85%; current parents – from 40% to 45%; faculty and staff – from 13% to 37%; Senior Class – from 24% to 82%.

We also receive wonderful support from relatives of alumni, friends, corporation and foundations. This trend is very encouraging. Corporations and foundations frequently inquire about the giving participation rates of constituent groups prior to making gifts to educational institutions.

The Prep continues to move forward and this point of pride, in no small part, is due to the generosity of our constituent groups and friends and the efforts of our dedicated volunteers who rally the troops in support of Fordham Prep.

Our Class Representatives keep their classmates connected to each other and the Prep; alumni and parents participate in phonothons, reaching out to constituent groups and prospective donors; Fathers' Club and Mothers' Club members are busy year round running social activities and events that support the school; the Golf Outing Committee is growing the Prep's Annual Outing at a rapid pace; and Ye Olde Prep Shoppe volunteers are selling Prep apparel and merchandise which help to promote the Prep's name.

Our constituent groups' efforts reflect their dedication to our school, and they serve the Prep for the same reasons: in appreciation of Jesuit Education; because they value the relationships they forged at the Prep; desire for future Rams to have the same formative experiences; and, quite simply, because they love Fordham Prep.

Your support means so much to our school. Enclosed with this Ramview is a response envelope for your convenience. Please contact Joan Wollman if further information is required (telephone 718-367-7500, extension 209; email: wollmanj@fordhamprep.org).

Fordham Prep Annual Fund Campaign Foster Pride at Fordham Prep

Since its founding in 1841, Fordham Preparatory School has continued to grow. We are proud of our school, and its strength is a tribute to all who have supported the Prep over the years. Because our Annual Fund is the lifeblood of the school, we would like to answer some questions you may have about our annual appeal:

Q. What is the Annual Fund and why do we need it?

A. The Annual Fund sustains Fordham Preparatory School's commitment to quality education. The Fund is designed to help cover the current year's anticipated operational expenses. Because the Fund covers immediate operating expenses, it is critical that the Annual Fund remains strong and growing. This helps to ensure that the school's operating budget is not compromised.

Q. Why doesn't Fordham Prep raise tuition to pay for all of the operating needs?

A. Although Fordham Prep must raise tuition annually to guarantee growth in faculty salaries and school programs, the school could not charge the full cost of tuition without seriously limiting the number of qualified students who could afford to attend. Revenue derived through the Annual Fund allows the school to keep tuition at a competitive rate with independent schools in the surrounding community.

Q. How are the Annual Fund dollars spent?

A. The funds raised through the Annual Fund campaign are spent on budgeted items throughout the school year. In general, the Fund provides support for the professional development of our faculty and staff, classroom materials, student activities and clubs, arts and athletic programs, financial aid and the maintenance of the buildings and grounds.

Q. Who determines the Annual Fund's goal? If we don't meet the goal, will the Prep be affected?

A. Fordham Prep President Father Christopher J. Devron S.J. recommends an Annual Fund goal to the Development and Finance committees of the Prep's Board of Trustees. The process balances tuition revenue forecasting and maximizing Annual Fund potential. If the goal isn't met, the deficit would result in the deferral of capital improvement projects, eliminating staff development, and delaying technology upgrades.

Q. Who should give to the Annual Fund?

A. Everyone who is part of the Fordham Prep community, including alumni, parents, senior class students, and friends, should support, if possible, the Annual Fund. Contributions to the Annual Fund range from the $10 or $20 a student or young alumnus in college might contribute to many thousands of dollars.

Q. I can't make a large gift. Does my gift still matter?

A. The Prep needs and values everyone's support. A gift, regardless of the amount, will provide additional resources and will often serve to encourage others to make gifts. An appropriate gift is one in proportion to a person's ability to give. Corporate matching gifts enable donors to increase the value of their gifts and provide valuable sources of revenue to the school.

Q. Why is the percent of participation important?

A. A high percent of participation in the Annual Fund is an important way to demonstrate the commitment of the Prep's constituents. Corporations and foundations frequently inquire about the participation rates of key constituent groups prior to making gifts to educational institutions.

Q. Does it matter when I pledge or make a gift?

A. To help plan the school's spending, donors are asked to make gifts or pledges as early in the school year as possible. Payments can be made through the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Q. How do I contribute to the Annual Fund?

- A. You can make your tax-deductible donation in any of these ways:
- Pledge now and pay in full or in installments by June 30
  - A check made payable to Fordham Preparatory School
  - Credit Card: American Express, Discover, Master Card, Visa

18th ANNUAL FORDHAM PREP GOLF OUTING

Another Success by all Accounts

Fordham Preparatory School's 18th Annual Golf Outing was held on June 18, 2013 at Quaker Ridge Golf Club, Scarsdale, NY and Wykagyl Country Club, New Rochelle, NY.

Despite the challenge of a rainy day, the outing was a great success. With 181 golf participants, and more than $72,000 net raised for the school's Annual Fund, the outing set records for participation and net revenue raised for the second consecutive year. And, this growth is expected to continue.

The outing included lunch, shotgun start for the golfers, a cocktail reception, followed by an open-seating dinner buffet. Silent and live auctions featured noteworthy trips, highly regarded golf clubs, college and professional athletic events, and top restaurants and hotels, among other fine offerings - and there were 41 wonderful raffle prizes.

Prizes were also awarded for closest to the pin, longest drive and straightest drive, and for low gross and net scores in foursome competitions.

We are most grateful to the members of our Golf Committee for their assistance in planning and executing our outing and helping us to take this event to a new level, and also to the outing's sponsors for their generosity and interest in our school.

The golf committee is already making plans for next year's outing which will be held on June 17, 2014. We are considering including a tennis component in this event, and we would appreciate your letting us know if this component would be of interest to you. Golf Committee volunteers are welcome.

If you would like to participate in next year's outing, or assist us as a Golf Committee volunteer, please contact John Kahl, Vice President for Development and Alumni Relations, at telephone 718-367-7500, extension 210; email: kahlj@fordham-prep.org. We hope that you will join us at this event.

Class of 1988 Sets a New Record for Reunion Attendance

On April 20, 2013, the Fordham Prep Class of 1988 celebrated its 25th Reunion in the Imperial Ballroom of the Riverside Church in Manhattan and set a new Prep record with 89 classmates in attendance. The former record of 88 classmates was set last year by the Class of 1987.

The Class of 1988 celebrated the evening by toasting several of their fellow classmates. John Joyce made a toast in honor of his cousin, Patrick Joyce, a Yonkers firefighter who gave his life in the line of duty in 2009. Marc Burton made a toast in honor of Joel Harris who died as the result of a college fraternity hazing accident in 1988. The Class was honored to welcome Joel's mother, Mrs. Adrienne Harris, and Joel's cousin at the reunion. Tom Ryan made a toast in honor of George Coleman, who died after a long battle with cancer. While Mrs. Coleman was unable to attend the reunion, she did make a contribution to the Class Endowment in honor of George. Last, but definitely not least, Ruben Rivera made a toast in honor of those classmates who have served, or are still serving, in the United States Armed Forces including, but not limited to: Mark Goldschmidt and Brian McCooley (Army), Dan Demaso (Navy), Anthony Ajello and Christopher Brennan (Air Force), Ruben Alvarez, Ed Coffey and Nick Visconti (Marines), and Dennis Miller (Coast Guard).

Other pictures from the evening may be found on the Fordham Prep Online community.

Overall, the night was a tremendous success due to the hard work of the 25-member Reunion Committee, which did an outstanding job bringing everyone together. The Committee, chaired by

Endowment Campaigns for the Classes of 1987 and 1988

Raise Over $1,000,000 in Support of the Patrick S. Joyce Jr. '88 Scholarships

As you may know, the fundraising model established by the Class of 1987 was different from any attempted in prior years. Members of the Class of 1987 worked together to ask their classmates to mark their 25th Reunion Year by pledging significant gifts that could be spread out over three (3) years. Alumni who had never given, as well as alumni who were long-time contributors, were asked to consider making pledges greater than any amount that they had contributed in the past. The success of that campaign was outstanding and remarkable with a current total of over $800,000 committed and a 57% class participation rate. The Class of 1987 used these monies to establish the Patrick S. Joyce Jr. '88 Scholarships and funded these scholarships with 100% of its Endowment.

I want to make sure that future generations have the same opportunity that I had back in 1984 — a greater chance of succeeding in life.”

Kevin Rooney, a member of the Class of 1988, is also a Prep Parent now that his son, John, is a Freshman at the Prep. Kevin, who grew up in the Parkchester section of the Bronx, explained his reasons for giving. “My parents were divorced so money was extremely tight in my family. There was no way that they could afford to send me to the Prep. I was an altar boy at St. Helena’s Parish in the Bronx and, by complete chance, met Rev. James Griffin, S.J. (a former Fordham Prep faculty member) during the summer before my 8th grade year. Fr. Griffin was assigned to our parish to cover for the parish priests who were on vacation. When Fr. Griffin found out that I wanted to attend the Prep, but that my parents could not afford the tuition, he set out to find a way to make it happen. Eventually, he succeeded – he learned that a secretarial position was available at the Prep and that as part of the compensation, my mother would receive a 50% reduction in tuition. My mother gave up a job, which she really enjoyed with the NYC Transit Authority’s Patrolmen’s Benefit Association, and took the job at the Prep. If not for Fr. Griffin and my mother, I never would have been able to go to the Prep. My contribution to the Endowment is my way of honoring them and thanking them for giving me the chance to attend the Prep. I hope we’re able to help a lot of kids who appreciate the opportunity to attend the Prep as much as I did, and still do.”

Even more remarkable is the fact that the Prep has already started to award Patrick S. Joyce Jr. '88 Scholarships to students. To date, two students from the Classes of 2016 and 2017, both academically qualified and able to demonstrate a financial need, have received scholarships totaling approximately $20,000. In fact, one of the recipients is in his second year of receiving one of these scholarships. We expect to highlight the successes of these students as they progress through the Prep.

Following the success of the Class of 1987, the Class of 1988 has been quietly raising its own Endowment – all of which will also be used to support the Patrick S. Joyce Jr. '88 Scholarships. To date, the Class of 1988 has raised $230,000. This brings the aggregate total raised in support of the Patrick S. Joyce Jr. '88 Scholarships to more than $1,000,000.

The Class of 1988 has already set a new record for the amount raised from its members. Next on the horizon is the record for the number of classmates participating in the campaign. Toward this end, the entire Fundraising Committee has contributed to the Class of 1988 Endowment – Tom Ryan, Kevin Rooney, John Joyce, James Mangan, Mark FitzPatrick, Marlo Young, Marc Burton, Patrick Deane, Peter Maddocks, Manuel Mercader, Mike Tognino, Richard Naclerio, Ruben Rivera, Stephen Savva, Valentino Vasi, and John Yoon. This diverse group of alumni grew up in the Bronx, Manhattan, and Westchester, and come from an assortment of economic, racial, and ethnic backgrounds. Another noteworthy fact is that these gentlemen include first-time donors, sporadic contributors, and long-term donors.

In speaking with these donors, we also learned that there are numerous and varied reasons why members of this class are contributing to the Endowment and the Patrick S. Joyce Jr. '88 Scholarships. Marlo Young, who grew up on Murdock Avenue in the Wakefield section of the Bronx, contributed an amount that was much larger than any he had given in the past. According to Marlo, “I was the recipient of financial aid when I was a student at the Prep. Without the financial aid, I would not have attended the Prep - one of the most invaluable and rewarding academic experiences of my life. The opportunity to contribute to the Patrick Joyce '88 Scholarships was the perfect way for me to give back in almost the same way the Prep helped me 25+ years ago. I want to help parents who do not have the financial resources to send their kids to the Prep.

Patrick Deane, another member of the Class of 1988 and the current Assistant Dean of Students, AP History Teacher, and Head Varsity Baseball Coach for the Prep, had these thoughts – “my father worked for Con Edison and served as the Superintendent of our building in the Pelham Bay section of the Bronx. My parents did everything that they could to give me the opportunity to go to the Prep. They gave me the opportunity to attend a school where I met guys from the Bronx, Manhattan, Queens, Westchester, New Jersey, and Connecticut. I learned a lot from guys who came from different economic, racial and ethnic backgrounds. More importantly, I know that no other school would have brought together such a diverse group of kids, in such a competitive but nurturing environment, and have them collectively succeed both at the Prep and beyond. I’m sure a lot of Prep alumni feel the same way, but I think of our class as a large group of brothers – we may not always get along, but we’ll always be friends and always look forward to getting together as a class.”

Members of the Class of 1988 interested in making a contribution to the Endowment are encouraged to contact one of the Fundraising Committee members (Kevin Rooney, Marc Burton, Patrick Deane, Mark FitzPatrick, John Joyce, Peter Maddocks, James Mangan, Manuel Mercader, Mike Tognino, Richard Naclerio, Ruben Rivera, Thomas Ryan, Stephen Savva, Valentino Vasi, John Yoon, and Marlo Young) to discuss the importance of this campaign and how they may be able to participate.

The Class of 1988 fundraising campaign will conclude on, Thursday, November 28th, Thanksgiving Day, when the torch is passed to the Class of 1989, as the class begins its 25th Reunion Year.

CLASS OF 1964

Challenge Grant

On April 14, 2013, an anonymous donor proposed a challenge to the Class of 1964: He would match, in the name of his deceased brother, on a dollar for dollar basis, all contributions and pledges made, by members of the class to the John Vrionis '64 Endowed Scholarship Fund by June 14, 2013, up to an aggregate of $100,000. This individual would fund the scholarship endowment, as and when contributions by the class were received.

This was a way for the donor to honor his brother, and John Vrionis (who was selected for induction into the Hall of Honor in November 2013), and also provide scholarship support for worthy young men at his beloved school. The challenge period was limited to 60 days.

Classmates Jim DiMarzo, Brian Heller, Lee Higdon, John Malone, Jerry O’Gorman, Andy Paterno, and Bill Perry – collectively, the Friends of John – spearheaded the fundraising effort.

The challenge grant was a success – 96 alumni, friends and foundations, made gifts and pledges totaling a $131,724. It was a tremendous team effort.

We invite other classes to follow the success of the Class of 1964. Please contact John Kahl, Vice President for Development and Alumni Relations if you would like to discuss a similar challenge for your class. (telephone: 718-367-7500, extension 210; email: kahlj@fordhamprep.org).

Rugby at Fordham Prep: The Successful Revival of a High School Program

By Carlo DiNota '85

Sporting events were underway everywhere on Fordham's Rose Hill campus on a bright Thursday afternoon early this May - baseball, track, lacrosse, tennis. But nothing was as big as the rugby match at Murphy Field between two long-time high school rivals, Fordham Prep and Xavier, which brimmed with energy and excitement.

Parents and supporters of Fordham Prep's 110-player rugby team were seemingly everywhere, with cameras, lawn chairs, and picnic baskets. Fordham's Varsity XV had entered the game a clear underdog to their Jesuit archrival and perennial national powerhouse, Xavier High School. Down 14 points at the half, Fordham stormed back to tie the game with five minutes remaining, only to lose on a penalty kick before the final whistle.

It was a proud and gutsy Fordham performance. And judging by the caliber of play, Fordham's huge squad, the professionalism of its coaches, and impressive fan turnout, Fordham Prep Rugby was on very solid footing.

Tough Early Years

Yet twenty-eight years earlier, an article in Rugby Magazine's September 1985 issue reported that the Fordham program - then coach-less, broke, and orphaned - was on the verge of extinction. I know because I was the author of that piece.

As a graduating high school senior, I was upset at the neglect of Fordham Prep Rugby. Neglect not only by the school administration, but also by the community of New York-area men's clubs that had chosen "to turn their backs on high school rugby."

The recent renaissance of rugby at Fordham Prep is remarkable, considering that the sport had been completely erased from the school's extracurricular catalog by 1989.

Exploring the program's pedigree, however, may offer clues as to its resurgence.

Fordham Prep RFC: Founded 1976

Fordham Prep Rugby is steeped in New York City rugby tradition. Its family tree can be traced to the Old Maroon RFC (which would later become OMEX), founded by Fordham Prep graduates and Fordham University players.

Fran Cunningham '67, a Prep assistant football coach, had been playing for Old Maroon in the mid-1970s when he invited Fran Perdisatt, head coach of the Prep's football program, to some Old Maroon games. Perdisatt saw rugby as a perfect spring conditioning sport for his football players. And in 1976, Cunningham and Perdisatt founded the Fordham Prep RFC with a miniscule budget.

"We always had enough players for two sides," recalls Cunningham. "At the time, Tom O'Hara was trying to form Xavier's program and St. Francis Prep was the only established team in the area. We designed our jerseys, practiced on a field on Southern Boulevard, and played at Randall's Island. We were like a family."

Says Sean Davey '80: "Playing rugby in the late 70s was amazing. There were very few local high school teams (Fordham, Xavier, and St. Francis Prep), so in addition to playing each of the other teams three times a year, we had to travel outside of New York City to face new competition. Back then, the only nearby rugby pitches were on Randall's Island, which were glass-strewn, with sewer caps scattered throughout. The fields were not level and wind from the East River frequently caused erratic kicking."

Within two years, Fordham Prep's fledgling program had toured England (winning three matches) and twice visited Toronto. These tours led to return visits from Canadian and English teams, supplementing Fordham's spring schedule.

Rugby's Decline

After 1983, however, rugby at Fordham Prep went into decline. The 1985 Rugby Magazine article that I authored chronicled the program's gradual demise and by the end of 1989, rugby at Fordham Prep was gone.

Fordham Prep's Rugby Revival

Fast forward twenty-four years to 2013, and Fordham Prep Rugby is back with a well-organized and competitive program that is built for longevity. The initiative, cooperation, and planning among various constituencies that accomplished this comeback can serve as a "how-to" for U.S. high schools that might be considering rugby.

It started with a business proposal by two enterprising Fordham Prep athletes: football captain and 2010 Bronx/Manhattan Player of the Year Anthony Bronzo '11 and his football teammate Mike Mahon '12.

According to Bronzo, now a junior at Tulane, where he plays both football and rugby, the two were wondering what to do next after defeating Xavier in the annual Fall Turkey Bowl football game, and capping a 10-win football season.

Skeptical that he would be recruited to play college football, Bronzo was on the lookout for a new sport, and rugby's physical demands and camaraderie held great appeal.

For Mahon, who grew up in the heavily Irish, Woodlawn section of the Bronx, rugby was not unfamiliar. "I had seen a few Six Nations games and rugby seemed like fun," said Mahon. Now a sophomore at the University of South Carolina, he is the starting #8 on the school's rugby club.

The intense Fordham-Xavier sporting rivalry played a significant part in Fordham's rugby revival. Says Bronzo, "After the 2010 Turkey Bowl football game, we decided that there was no reason Fordham shouldn't have as successful a rugby program as Xavier has."

According to Mike Mahon, Fordham Prep principal Robert Gomprecht '65 asked the boys for a proposal after they approached him about reinstituting rugby. Early in 2011, Bronzo and Mahon presented Gomprecht and Fr. Kenneth Boller, president of Fordham Prep, with a detailed business plan that covered everything from prospective coaches and insurance policies to field usage time and funding. "They were shocked at how much research we had done," says Bronzo, who is now majoring in finance and marketing at Tulane. "There was no way the administration thought two high school kids would get this done."

But get it done, they did.

Despite Spring 2011 being a startup season with borrowed equipment and jerseys, the Fordham Prep RFC - then led by head coach Ed Tweedy - managed early success. With a respectable 40-man roster, they earned a runner-up finish in the Long Island Cup and a semifinal appearance in the Jersey Cup.

In 2012, Christian Mayo of Play Rugby, who helped coach, connected Fordham with NYAC flanker Neil McMillan. A former standout for Ulster (Ireland), McMillan was excited about the opportunity to coach a high school team. The impact of having a high level Irish player at the coaching helm, along with active parent and alumni support, became palpable in the success of the program. US Eagle flyhalf Toby L'Estrange is also part of McMillan's coaching staff.

In 2012, McMillan's first year, the team won the Jersey Cup and placed third in the Jesuit Cup. Their impressive 75-man 2012 roster then expanded to a jaw-dropping 110 players in 2013. In fact, there are not enough matches to accommodate each and every player from Fordham's two varsity sides, down to their JV and freshman teams. Last spring, Fordham finished third in the Met NY league and won the Jersey Cup for the second consecutive year.

Alumni Support

Sean Davey and another player from the 70s, John McCaffrey '78, have been instrumental in corralling alumni players to support Fordham Prep Rugby, while educating current players about the pride and sense of family among past Fordham ruggers.

McCaffrey coached Fordham Rugby in the early 80s, and his 1983 team, moderated by teacher Ferd Beck, fielded one of the best A-sides in team history. McCaffrey and Beck's players would go on to play for such collegiate rugby clubs as Yale, Boston College, Navy, Fairfield, Fordham, Villanova, Rhode Island, and Hartford. Up until now, the 1983 squad was the last great Fordham Prep rugby team.

Administrative Support

The importance of support from Fordham Prep's administration, in allowing the program to exist and grow, can't be understated. In the past, administration support seemed reluctant, non-committal, or non-existent.

Clearly, Fordham Rugby is succeeding today because of a more complete faculty and community buy-in. Says former coach Fran Perdisatt: "It's great to see the Prep prosper in its rugby development. Having the support of the Fordham Prep community – parents, teachers, administrators and alumni - is a winning combination for the school and should be a model for other private schools."

Current Program

- * Fordham Prep currently fields four rugby teams: Varsity A, Varsity B, Junior Varsity and Freshman.
- * There's a no-cut policy and students receive Varsity and JV letters.
- * The team is comprised of crossover athletes from all of Fordham's fall sports, as well as those whose only high school sport is rugby.
- * Coaches receive a small stipend for their services, and the school assists by arranging buses for their matches.

Parent Support

Indispensable to the resurgence of Fordham Prep Rugby is its very active Parent's Club, headed by Linda Costelloe, wife of assistant coach Joe Costelloe.

The Parent's Club has raised an impressive $20k and holds an annual rugby fundraising dinner that taps into alumni and parent generosity (uniforms and equipment are acquired, in part, with these funds). The dinner has honored pioneers of Fordham Rugby, such as Cunningham and Perdisatt, in order to bond current players with the program's proud past. Last February's dinner featured Eagle lock Brian Doyle and the year prior, Eagle scrumhalf Mike Petri.

Says Simon Walsh '83, who went on to play for the Yale, Old Blue, and Washington RFCs: "The students are doing a great job but the moms are off the charts. The mothers are a juggernaut. They've arranged fundraising dinners and raffles, planned trips and tournaments, and basically kept everything on track. That takes a lot of pressure off the kids."

"My inbox is inundated," says Linda Costelloe, as she describes the rapid-fire parental support she receives when asking for help on game day. Costelloe's long-term plan is to expand and refine her parent's group into a Gonzaga High School-like booster club.

Up and down the line - from players, coaches and alumni - all acknowledge that Fordham Prep Rugby would not have the bright future it has today if it weren't for the tireless efforts of Costelloe and the parents.

Xavier: Providing Help and Inspiration

Like Linda Costelloe, head coach McMillan looks to another Jesuit school, Xavier, for inspiration. And he is very clear on where he would like to see Fordham Prep Rugby in the not-too-distant future: "In three to four years' time, I would like Fordham to be on par with Xavier."

Xavier, one of the premier high school rugby programs in the nation with four National HS Championships, has played a vital role in Fordham's regeneration. Fordham coaches and alumni credit Tom O'Hara, Xavier '69 and a founder of Xavier Rugby, with drumming up early support for rugby's return to Rose Hill.

According to O'Hara, Fordham Prep's head football coach Pete Gorynski (Xavier '73) had called him in January 2011 to ask if he could assist Bronzo and Mahon with the rugby program.

"They were impressive kids," says O'Hara. "I was very happy to help." Ed Tweedy (Xavier '70), a close friend of O'Hara's from the US Merchant Marine Academy and New York RFC, was named Fordham Prep's head coach in 2011 – the program's first year back. Fr. Boller, formerly of Xavier, had also been close with the Tweedy family. Tweedy then recruited O'Hara's son Ciaran (Xavier '06) as Fordham's first assistant coach.

Mike Tolkin (Xavier '85), then Xavier and NYAC head coach and now US Eagle head coach; Bruce McLane (Xavier '85), then Tolkin's top assistant at NYAC and now NYAC's head coach; and Joe Sweeney (Xavier '85), Xavier's director of rugby, all helped Fordham organize an experienced coaching staff.

Tolkin, Sweeney, and Tony Paolozzi, then Xavier rugby moderator and assistant AD (now AD), all provided invaluable advice to Fordham on the operational, financial, and logistical aspects of organizing and running a rugby program.

Says Jerry Wolf, a Fordham coach and parent, who along with Christian Mayo visited Xavier in 2011 to meet with Tolkin and his coaching staff: "Xavier opened their hearts to us. They were extremely supportive and helpful in giving us as much info as possible."

Cooperative Spirit

The cooperative spirit between the two Jesuit rugby programs goes all the way back to 1976. As Tom O'Hara recalls, "We got along great. Fordham Prep and Xavier worked together in those days. In fact, the first time either team toured - to Toronto in 1977 - it was a joint tour. The two teams traveled together by bus and played the same schools separately, in rotation."

Despite their intense sports rivalry, the collaboration between the two rugby clubs is both fraternal and mutually beneficial. One Jesuit rugby team helping the other – but each program also understanding that good local competition among well-coached teams will raise each program's level of play.

Says Fordham rugby and football alumnus Simon Walsh: "What Xavier has done is admirable. It's a great testament to the way they look at life and the way they put the Jesuit mission into practice. It would be easy to just build on their success and turn their backs on a long-time rival.

But they haven't done that. They've reached out and helped build a strong foundation." Fordham and Xavier's cooperation should serve as a model for high school teams and leagues around the nation.

Keys to Success

Solid parent involvement, quality coaching, quality administration, alumni support, and mutual cooperation between rivals have been instrumental in Fordham's resurgence. And the more kids play the game, the more they get hooked and spread the word among their friends to join them. This is evidenced by Fordham's robust roster expansion (from 40-110 players) over the past three years.

"The momentum has really come from the boys," says coach Jerry Wolf. "There is huge interest. At the end of the day, they really want to participate."

Rugby Tradition in Jesuit Schools

Fordham Prep Rugby is now on terra firma, and that continues the unique and proud rugby tradition in America's Jesuit high schools. This tradition will continue to play a significant role in USA Rugby's ability to compete on the international stage.

"Rugby is a sport that currently differentiates Jesuit schools," says Xavier's O'Hara. "Rugby is a game built for Jesuit kids; if the sport wasn't around we would have invented it."

O'Hara speculates that the tight bonding, so apparent in Jesuit prep schools, combined with rugby's strong sense of fraternity, is a major reason for rugby's appeal at these institutions. The Jesuit academic tradition, that promotes sound body and mind, adds O'Hara, may also be a factor with rugby's popularity: "Rugby is a thinking man's game." Browse through a starting A-side on a college rugby team and the chances of seeing a rugger from one of North America's 25+ Jesuit high school rugby programs are very good. Players from Jesuit schools, O'Hara opines, are also likely to lead rugby clubs in college and beyond. And if there isn't a club, they employ their missionary ethos of spreading the word and starting one from scratch.

Administrators on the fence about starting a rugby program would be wise to reach out to Xavier, Gonzaga, Jesuit-Sacramento or Fordham for blueprints and counsel. Given the lack of bureaucracy in a Jesuit school, a program could be up and running in fairly short order and support could be drawn from the large Jesuit support system nationwide.

A workshop, sponsored by the Jesuit Secondary Education Association, on bringing rugby to member schools, would also be a great idea.

Due to the bold initiative of two Fordham athletes, the subsequent school community buy-in (parents, players, administrators, and alumni), and Xavier's crucial early support, rugby is back at Fordham Prep – where it should be.

And this time, Fordham Prep Rugby is here to stay.

A MATTER OF PRINCIPALS

by Lou DiGiorno '88, School Historian

When the Chairman of the Board, John Neary, Class of 1987, formally announced the selection of Rev. Christopher Devron, SJ as Fr. Boller's successor to the Office of the President, he did so in a letter that read "Fr. Devron will be the 35th President of Fordham Prep dating from its 1841 founding with Fordham University, and the 5th president since the school emerged as a standalone entity in 1970." Tabulating Fr. Devron's number in succession was a fairly straightforward process: tally up the presidents from 1841 through 1970 – the year of legal separation from the University – and continue the count when the distinct Prep presidency kicks in.

As to whether or not those pre-separation presidents (or rectors as they were called in the 19th century) thought of themselves as "Prep" presidents, there can be no doubt. From the very beginning, the men who held that office would have considered themselves as much the president of St. John's Second Division (the Prep) as St. John's First Division (the College) – after all, the original plan was for a single, seamless course of study. In fact, the 19th-century deans' diaries are peppered with examples of the early presidents' genuine presidentiality over the early Prepsters. When Rev. Thomas Gannon, SJ, for instance, declared the Feast of St. Lucy 1893 a skating holiday, he declared it for the entire student body, Prep boys included, and classes were cancelled campuswide to the delight of all. A few months later, on a cold and snowy February 16th in 1894, when George Rooney, Prep Class of 1895, "nearly broke his neck and back, and crushed his skull" on the toboggan slide, it was once again "Father Rector" (as the boys would have called Fr. Gannon) who proclaimed that "tobogganing was forbidden hereafter under every and all circumstances." Interestingly enough, that proclamation has never been revoked, and so technically the prohibition still stands. [Point to ponder: Since the presidency has since been split into two offices, University and Prep — and since the whole toboggan incident was a Prep affair — who holds the power of revocation? Is there a Snowball Summit in the future for Fr. Devron and Fr. McShane, president of the University?]

Nor is there any reason to suppose that the relationship between the presidents of yesteryear and the Prep was one-sided. From the point of view of the early Prepsters, the men who held Rose Hill's highest office were as much their presidents as they were the presidents of the College or the Graduate School or the (short-lived) Medical School, or any of the other schools of Fordham University — right down through the 1960s. Simply thumbing through the first few pages of old Prep yearbooks, one finds that the University presidents are included in the very same way that the post-separation Prep presidents are today. And yearbooks aside, more than one alum from the mid-20th century, like Patrick Swift, Class of 1962, has recounted caroling in the University president's office with the German Choir. Would a troupe of high schoolers treat [or should I say subject] a man with no sense of presidential affection and responsibility for them to an adolescent rendition of Rudolph das kleine Rentier annually? [Igitt!]

This past December, as folks read the Board's announcement and began to digest the bit about the Devronic trigesimoquinty [not every day you need a word for thirtyfifthness, huh?], it seems that a bit of communal curiosity was awakened, for in the weeks that followed, a single question was asked over and over again from nearly every corner of Prep community: "So what number in line is Mr. Gomprecht?" [First to ask: Mrs. Darlene Milone, Secretary to the Office of the President. First student to ask: Eric D'Armetta, Class of 2013]

If tabulating presidents was straightforward, tracing the succession of the principalship was somewhat more convoluted. About the best we can do is state with absolute certainty that Mr. Robert Gomprecht, Class of 1965, is either the 42nd, 17th, or 13th (or 12th) principal of Fordham Preparatory School.

Fr. Remigius I. Tellier, SJ
Prefect of Studies, St. John's College
1854-1859

Fr. William S. Dolan, SJ
Principal, St. John's College High School
(Fordham Prep)
1921-1930

Mr. Robert J. Gomprecht '65
Headmaster/Principal,
Fordham Preparatory School
1994-present

The lineage of Prep principals seemingly starts off simply enough. In 1854, thirteen years after Fordham's founding as St. John's College, the position that would become the Prep principalship was created in the establishment of the Office of the Prefect of Studies (not to be confused with the Office of the Prefect of Discipline, the original name for the Office of the Dean of Discipline). These early prefects of studies were responsible for the overseeing the academic program and the day-to-day operations of the school, very much the way Principal Gomprecht is today. Fordham's first prefect of studies: Rev. Remigius Tellier, SJ, who was also president at the time. Within a few years, however, it became the custom for the vice presidents (as opposed to the presidents of St. John's College) to serve in the position of prefect, and so it remained for the rest of the century. The closeness of the link between the Prep and the Office of the Prefect of Studies was underscored in 1890, the year Hughes Hall first opened. Since the Vice President's Office was moved into the newly constructed Hughes Hall, the prefects of studies were able to keep a very close eye on Prep affairs in particular – very much the way our in-building principals do today.

In 1907, St. John's College was granted an amendment to its original charter officially changing its name to Fordham University and reaffirming its status as a full-fledged university. St. John's College Second Division (already colloquially known as Fordham Prep) would persist as St. John's College High School [and later Fordham College High School – the Prep's official name down through the '30s]. This is where the succession starts to get a bit complicated.

While the Office of the Prefect of Studies (held by the vice presidents) continued to carry out the duties we would associate with the Office of the Principal, starting in 1907, the president of the University also began to be listed as "Principal of St. John's College High School" on all legal documents and in the school catalogues, likely as an attempt to be in keeping with the emerging concept of the modern American high school. Though not specifically functioning as such, these "principals," were technically the first men actually known as Prep principals, if only on paper. And so, at this point, we encounter a second possible starting point for succession of the principalship: we can continue to count the prefects of studies from Fr. Tellier in 1854, making Bob Gomprecht 42nd in line, or we can begin the enumeration with the establishment of the name-only principals of the early 20th century, starting with Rev. Daniel Quinn, SJ. Choosing the latter would make the current principal only number 17.

Moving along, the next calculatory complication arises only a few years later in 1920, the year that the College was broken for the first time into academic departments. For not the last time in its history, the Prep was almost lost in the shuffle, nearly forced to close its doors forever. But against the odds, the Prep survived, temporarily existing as the "High School Department" of the College. In the reorganization, the dated title prefect of studies was dropped, and instead, the prefecture became known as the Office of the Dean of the College. In his governance of the special "High School Department," however, the dean was to hold the legal title principal, or at least acting principal, since it was quickly becoming clear that a single dean would not be able to continue to run both the College and the Prep indefinitely if the Prep were to keep its doors open. And so, in 1920, Rev. Michael Jessup, SJ, formerly Prefect of Studies, redubbed Dean of the College, would also serve as Acting Principal of Fordham Prep while the move was made to create a distinct Prep principalship.

Here, of course, we face an even further convoluted question of succession. Is Fr. Jessup simply the 30th in line from 1854? Or, since his official title did include the word principal, do we consider him the next in line after the name-only principals of the early 1900s and therefore, the 5th to hold the title? Or is the creation of his acting principalship something else? Is he the real 1st distinct Prep principal or is he the "0th" principal, his brief tenure only a preface to the true establishment of a Prep principalship?

However we number Fr. Jessup’s stint as Prep administrator, he certainly is an interesting character in school history. He had taught Prep algebra in 1899, and would become something of a hero of Fordham history when he was burned saving irreplaceable school records from a fire in the Administration Building on New Year’s Eve, 1924. To this day, any of the early records we have are called the Fire Files in remembrance of the event.

After Fr. Jessup, would come Rev. William Dolan, SJ, who, though perhaps the 31st, 6th or 2nd in line, was also undisputedly the 1st principal of Fordham Prep distinct in all ways from the University Administration. It was in the creation of the office that Fr. Dolan would fill that the first step towards the Prep’s eventual emergence as, in Neary’s words, “a standalone entity” was taken. Fr. Dolan would hold the position from 1921-1929, and enjoyed the reputation as a strict but fair administrator.

From Fr. Dolan’s time down through today, the succession of principals is a straight count, right through the legal separation of 1970 and on into the 21st century. The title of the office may have changed – from Office of the Principal to Office of the Headmaster and then back again, but the line has continued unbroken, making Mr. Gomprecht the 42nd holder of the office from 1854, or the 17th from 1907, or the 13th from Fr. Jessup, or the 12th from Fr. Dolan.

Robert Gomprecht, Class of 1965, whose term began in 1994, has served as principal (at first, headmaster) longer than any of his predecessors. He is the fourth principal since the legal separation of the Prep and University and only the third layman to hold the office, even since the 1854 establishment of the prefecture – Drs. Bernard Bouillette (1975-82) and Cornelius “Neil” McCarthy (1982-94) preceded him. He is also the third alum to serve as principal (Fr. Joseph O’Connell [1941-6] was Class of 1918 and Dr. McCarthy was Class of 1953). He is the son of an alum: the late Dr. Robert Gomprecht, Class of 1941; and the father of two alums: Robert and Christopher, Classes of ’89 and ’94. Unlike Fr. Dolan – who actually kept and used a hugqa pipe in his office [no joke!], Principal Gomprecht is the first administrator — since 1841, mind you — to completely ban smoking for all persons on the premises, though it is true that administrative opinions on tobacco use have swung back and forth over the last 173 years [Note to self: Idea for future column: “Thank You for {Not} Smoking”]

Finally, from yearbook evidence [and from personal memory {J.J. Gilmartin ’88 sat across from me at the lab table; Stephen Decker ’88 to the right}], it is safe to say that Bob Gomprecht is the only individual to ascend to the principalship having sported plaid pants back in the ’80s during his days as a bio teacher. [Don’t worry: I have tenure.]

ALUMNI UPDATE – PLEASE HELP US KEEP OUR RECORDS CURRENT

Class Notes is the best-read section of each issue of Ramview, and we need your information!

Alumni are encouraged to share news on career changes, promotions, awards/honors, marriages, births and adoptions. Information will be published in the earliest issue of Ramview as possible, as space allows. Information submitted more than one year following the event will not be published.

INFORMATION CAN BE SUBMITTED IN THREE WAYS:

- 1. Update your information in the online alumni community through the Prep’s website. The online alumni community link can be found under the Alumni tab at www.fordhamprep.org. Contact Director of Alumni Relations, Larry Curran ’77, at curranL@fordhamprep.org to obtain your login information.
- 2. Send your news via email to Larry Curran at curranL@fordhamprep.org
- 3. Mail your news to the Alumni Office, Fordham Preparatory School, 441 East Fordham Road, Bronx, NY 10458.

BE C·O·N·N·E·C·T·E·D

Class notes is the most popular and well-read section of Ramview. It provides a forum for classmates to share news of their personal and professional lives, including accolades, personal accomplishments, announcements and anything else fellow alumni might find interesting. We thank you, the alumni community, for sharing your news and photos with your classmates.

Throughout the year, our Class Representatives, whose names and emails are listed under each class, play leadership roles in helping classmates to maintain lifelong affiliation with the Prep.

So when you receive an email calling for class notes, please send your notes to your Class Representative(s) and/or to Larry Curran, Director of Alumni Relations, curranL@fordhamprep.org. If your class does not have a Class Representative, please email your notes to Larry.

An Alumni Update form is in this issue of Ramview. Please complete the form and return it to us in the enclosed envelop, and perhaps you may want to make your Annual Fund gift at this time, if you have not done so already.

BE A CONNECTOR

Don't be the class without notes! If your class does not have a Class Representative, and you would like to fill that role, please contact John Kahl, Vice President of Development and Alumni Relations at (718) 367-7500, extension 210.

Military Veterans

Col. Joe Kelly of the Prep class of 1935 has been designated the honorary president of the Fordham Prep Veterans Association. He started as a private in the USMC and attained the rank of full colonel. He served in the Pacific during WWII and with the Ninth Marines in Vietnam. We are working on establishing a web page at the Prep. If you are interested in joining the organization please contact Michael Corcoran at the school. His email is corcoram@fordham-prep.org. Those who have already signed up will be contacted again, shortly.

Robert Daley sent in this update: "The Red Squad, my 18th novel and 30th book overall, has now been published as an e-book. It is just out and is available on Kindle and the Nook, and on other devices that work in those formats. The story: New York, 1950-51. War raging in Korea 10,000 miles away. Inside the NYPD, the Bureau of Special Services and Investigations, BOSSI, also known as The Red Squad, wields immense power. Some of the scenes in this novel were suggested by real cases. Author's note: The Red Squad, did exist in New York during World War II and through much of the Cold War, as did similar Red Squads in other cities. Nearly all worked largely in secret, and were largely unsupervised. Strict legality was not always observed. Suspects' rights were sometimes trampled, careers and lives destroyed. In New York BOSSI lasted until 1970 when, because of the sinister reputation it had by then acquired, its cases and most of its personnel were quietly folded into the newly created Intelligence Division where, for some time longer, under its new name, it operated much as it had in the past."

Class of 1963 helps a Classmate who is a Maryknoll Priest.

As part of their May 2013, the Class of 1963 collected money and signed a card that sent their greetings to their classmate Father Thomas O'Brien, MM in Hanoi, Vietnam. Here is the letter that Father O'Brien wrote to his class:

Hello from Hanoi! I felt really happy when I opened that greeting card with the messages from my Fordham Prep Class of 1963 classmates who were gathered for our 50th anniversary class reunion. I wish I could have been there with all of you that weekend. Thanks to all for their contributions for my mission efforts here. I felt really proud to be a member of the Class of 1963!

Maryknoll recently celebrated 20 years of mission presence in Vietnam and I've been here for 18 of those years. Back in the 60's, while war was raging in Vietnam, I never thought that one day I might find myself in northern Vietnam as a missionary, but it has been a blessing to be able to contribute in some small ways to reconciliation between two countries that once were in conflict.

Ironically, Vietnam today is one of the most peaceful countries in the world. Life was very different in northern Vietnam during the war and for the first ten years after the war but since the mid 1980's when the government allowed a market economy to flourish, progress has been steady. The country is still a one-party state with little political democracy, but I think most Vietnamese feel free to live their lives as they wish. It's a very young population, with the majority born after the war ended in 1975, and so for many Vietnamese the war is "history," somewhat, I think, the way World War II felt like history for our generation. I've found that the older Vietnamese who did experience the war years are somewhat hesitant to share with someone like me what they went through, but I've never encountered animosity toward me as an American.

Vietnam does not grant visas to persons to do mission work, and so Maryknoll has been present here as a humanitarian NGO. We implement humanitarian or development projects in partnership with local organizations, in many cases with local governments at the district or province level. Many of our projects have been in the area of vocational skills training for poor youth in rural areas, and in recent years much of our work has been in treatment programs for children with disabilities as well as vocational skills training for young persons who have disabilities. It's not traditional mission work, but it's satisfying to see our projects help people in very direct ways. I joined Maryknoll after graduating from Fordham College in 1967. Part of my seminary training was to spend two years working with Maryknoll in Chile during the turbulent period of the socialist government of Salvador Allende. After ordination in 1974, I was assigned to the Philippines where I spent the next 15 years, most during the martial law government of Ferdinand Marcos. From 1990 -1995, I worked in Maryknoll's Office of Social Concerns in Washington, D.C. trying to bring the voices of the people with whom Maryknoll works to policy-makers in the U.S. government. In 1995, I came to Vietnam.

All the above is what I would have tried to share with my 1963 classmates had I been able to join the class reunion, and I would have loved to hear all of their stories. Thanks for thinking of me while you were all together. I think our years at the Prep were great preparation for all of us, wherever we wound up and whatever we experienced. I pray that God will continue to bless the families of all of my classmates.

Christopher Lauber '79

After moving from New Jersey, Christopher was living in Yonkers at the end of grade school when he heard from his teachers that Fordham Prep was a very good high school. No one seemed to know how to get there from north Yonkers, but as Christopher remembers it, the traveling was part of the attraction. The “new” building was still just that in 1975, and he fell in love with everything about the Prep: the teachers, the students, the location, the moveable walls, even the hard work.

After his parent’s divorce, Fordham Prep quickly became a home away from home for Christopher. He found the classes challenging, especially Math. A zero average in Trig at the end of first trimester mercifully convinced the administration to remove Christopher from the class. History and languages were his favorite classes. By graduation in 1979, he had taken 3 years of Spanish, 3 years of Greek and 2 years of Latin.

The years after graduation saw a false start in college; Christopher was an operating room orderly at Montefiore Hospital, a cab driver, a handyman in the reptile house at the Bronx Zoo, a postulant and novice with the Capuchin Franciscans, and a clerk in the Larchmont Library before finishing college. Christopher met Nell during this period, falling in love on a pilgrimage to Israel. They have two wonderful sons, and recently celebrated 25 years of marriage. Both Paul and Owen attended Fordham Prep.

Christopher wears several hats at the Prep after 21 years on the faculty. He teaches Latin and Greek, serves as Director of Admissions, moderates the yearbook, oversees textbooks and shares responsibility for the website. For ten years, he took students to Rome or Greece over the Easter vacation.

Nell and Christopher have a charming little home in Mamaroneck, NY, and enjoy gardening and reading. When students ask Christopher the secret of life, he has one word for them: gratitude.

Erik P. Goldschmidt, Ph.D. '92

Erik Goldschmidt came to the Prep after graduating from the Transfiguration School in Tarrytown, NY. He commuted daily from Scarborough, NY in Westchester County. While at the Prep, Erik distinguished himself academically and earned a Four Year Distinguished Scholar Award. He was a member of the National Honor Society and was a member of the Prep's 1992 Catholic High School Athletic Association Champion Swimming Team. After graduating from the Prep, he enrolled at University of Notre Dame. He received his B.A. degree in Liberal Studies in 1996. His studies at Notre Dame included a semester studying abroad in Madras, India. His academic pursuits continued after college as he completed three Masters degrees and a Ph.D. The Masters Degrees were in Secondary Education from the University of Portland's Alliance for Catholic Education and University of Notre Dame, Masters of Divinity from the University of Notre Dame and Mental Health Counseling from Boston College. His Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology is from Boston College.

In 2012, Erik was named the Director of Boston College's The Church in the 21st Century Center. The Center is Boston College's effort to be a catalyst and resource for the renewal of the Catholic Church. Erik was invited to apply for the position because of the research that he did that helped create models to fund and sustain Catholic education. There are a number of factors that interested Erik in Catholic education. His father, Robert, served as the first lay Chief Financial Officer of the Archdiocese of New York. A course with Religious Studies Department member and Director of the Service Program Paul Homer piqued Erik's curiosity about the formation and function of the Church. During his graduate work, he worked with many organizations that studied and assisted Catholic schools to find programs and organizations that could help them advance their missions. Erik credits the critical thinking that was required in Mr. Homer's and Mrs. Reynolds' Religion classes in coordination with the retreats and his service experience that laid the foundation for his interest in furthering Catholic education.

Erik's favorite Prep memory is being a member of the CHSAA Champion Swimming Team. He mentioned how well the team worked together to achieve the championship. Erik spoke highly of current swim team coach and his teammate Dominick Galimi.

Erik is a newlywed having married Tiffany on May 25, 2013. He proudly reports that Tiffany's three children, Elise, Zachary and Madeline, have welcomed him to their family with open arms.

Rev. Luke M. Sweeney '92

Father Luke Sweeney was born in Yonkers, and raised in Irvington, NY. He attended Immaculate Conception School before enrolling at the Prep as a Jesuit Presidential Scholar. Luke distinguished himself academically and received General Excellence each of his four years as well as the Four Year Distinguished Scholar Award. As a senior, he was inducted into the National Honor Society. Luke participated in Campus Ministry Retreats and actively in the Travel Club. He received certification to be a CCD teacher when he completed a course taught by Brother Sebastian Boccabella, S.J. After graduation, he entered a seminary residence program and attended Fordham University where he double majored in History and Philosophy in 1996. He again distinguished himself academically as he was invited to join Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year and graduated Summa Cum Laude. He continued his training for the priesthood after his college graduation by attending the Jesuit Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome while living at the Pontifical North American College. He received his Bachelors in Sacred Theology (STB) in 2000. He received his License in Sacred Theology in 2002 from the John Paul II Institute for Marriage and Family in Rome.

Luke is the Vice Rector of the Cathedral House of Formation in Queens, NY, which is the tri-diocesan college/philosophy seminary in the New York area. Previously, he served as the Vocations Director for the Archdiocese of New York. Among his accomplishments was to launch the online vocations website, www.NYPriest.com: The World Needs Heroes. You may recognize him from some of television work that he did for WCBS TV during events such as Archbishop Dolan's Installation Mass, Archbishop Dolan's ascension to Cardinal in February 2011 and the resignation of Pope Benedict XVI and Installation of Pope Francis. He joined the faculty of the Saint John Neumann Seminary in Yonkers after serving as the Parochial Vicar at Sacred Heart Church in Newburgh, NY. He was a Summer Parochial Vicar at Saint Theresa Church in the Bronx.

It was during his time in grammar school that Luke became interested in becoming a priest while volunteering as an altar server, receptionist and sacristan at Immaculate Conception. (One of the priests at the parish when Luke was growing up was Prep alumnus Father Tim Scannell '61.) As a teenager, his career choices were the priesthood or medicine. Because of his love of science, Luke took four years of science classes including taking two science courses his junior and senior year. One of his science memories is Bio teacher Peter McNamara dissecting a shark in freshman biology.

Looking back on his high school days, Father Luke said that American History with Arthur McCormack and Global II with Dan Nolan were classes that he enjoyed. He will always remember his first time on a plane when the Travel Club went to the Soviet Union in 1991! Having Charles Tarallo explain Russian History as we walked across an icy plaza in Leningrad brought history to life.

Luke is still involved at the Prep. He is a Class Representative, annual table host at the Alumni – Senior Breakfast and past golf outing attendee.

Hockey Alumni

For the last few years, the Fordham Prep Hockey Hall of Fame has celebrated the induction of new members and hosted its Alumni Game on the same day as the Varsity Homecoming game at Rye Playland. When Superstorm Sandy hit in October of 2012, Rye Playland was forced to close because of damage sustained to the Ice Casino, which will remain closed through the end of 2013, if not beyond. Because of difficulty re-scheduling all of the events together, the Varsity team was forced to go without a Homecoming game during the 2012-2013 season and the Alumni Game was cancelled for the year. However, the newest inductees into the Hall of Fame deserved a formal induction, albeit delayed for several months.

On Thursday 27 June, Joseph J. DeLasho '81, Philip R. Fusco '08, Kenneth A. LaBarca '81 and Charles R. MacKenzie '08 (the newest inductees) and their families joined Alan Pilla (former head coach and current Program Director) and Nelson Ritter '96 (Program Moderator and assistant coach) at Zuppa Restaurant and Lounge in Yonkers for an official induction dinner. Despite the delay, these four very deserving alumni players all expressed their dedication to Fordham Prep Hockey and their gratitude to their families, who have consistently fostered their love of the game. Congratulations, gentlemen!

Plans are already underway for all three events to once again be held simultaneously in November of 2013 at the Brewster Ice Arena. This will give all FP Hockey fans an opportunity to properly congratulate Joe, Phil, Kenny and Chuck, as well as the upcoming class of inductees. Fordham Prep Hockey alumni and fans - mark your calendars for Friday 29 November! More details are available on the Hockey page of the FP website.

New Hockey Hall of Fame Inductees Phil Fusco '08, Chuck MacKenzie '08, Ken LaBarca '81 and Joe DeLasho '81.

the first car-sharing company to launch in India (loosely similar to ZipCar in the US). We formally kicked off our service back in February of this year and we've rapidly expanded since our initial launch. We've grown our vehicle fleet over 6 fold since launch and we now have nearly 3,500 member in our service. We're targeting 150+ vehicles across 15+ locations in Bangalore by the end of this year. We were recently featured in the Wall Street Journal and the Times of India (India's largest newspaper and the 3rd largest English paper in the world!). We're actually in the midst of raising a very large investment round to help us expand our service across India." Greg is looking to contact any alumni living in Bangalore.

Fr. Sullivan’s Alumni “Posse”

At reunions, one of the Prep experiences alums often speak fondly of is their week of service with the poor in the Appalachian Mountains of West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee and in South America. One special group of alumni not only remembers their own trips fondly, they also have made that experience possible for Prep students for the past 9 years. Along with Fr. Charlie Sullivan, this alumni crew has led one of the Prep’s trips to work with Habitat for Humanity in Tennessee. Michael Franchi ’96, Steve Sheil ’76, and Jack Feighery ’03 have each led 8 trips as alums. When asked why he goes back each year Steve Sheil said the following:

I continue to go for several reasons; A long term friendship with Fr. Charles Sullivan, SJ that began in 1972 as a Prep freshman, the bond formed with the other 5 Prep alumni chaperones “Habitat Brothers”, an opportunity to give back to the Prep which has positively influenced my life, the gratifying feeling of helping others that I bring home with me after every trip, and we have a good time too.

Jack Feighery added the following:

I keep going back because it’s consistently the best week of my year. The other chaperones, the people I meet down there, they are absolutely incredible and they open their lives to us. I don’t know what kind of work other people do, but with bartending, it’s hard to see real value in the work. You provide a service, and hopefully a good one, that fills a social need, but it is an endless tide and you don’t even see the ripples you make too often. Working with Habitat, you’re still in the ocean – there are a lot of people who need housing, but you’re in the boat, you’re heading for the horizon, and you can see your wake folding behind you. We go down and do these dedication ceremonies at the end of the week, and it’s the culmination of what we tell the students - we’re building a house so someone can make it their home.

Five years ago, then college students, Dennis Robinson, Geoffrey DeSoye, and Stephen Donat, members of the class of 2006, joined Fr. Sullivan’s alumni crew and have been traveling to Tennessee each summer ever since. Since college they have all moved on to careers in the financial world, but still find time each summer to accompany Prep students. In addition they have taken on the arduous but important end of the summer road trip to return the school busses safely to the Prep. Reflecting on his experience Stephen Donat ’06 wrote: “In all, the experiences I remember from each summer’s trips are not only of ‘a hammer and a nail’ but, rather, a sense of community, friendship, and generosity.”

The Prep is grateful for the generosity of these alumni and proud of the example they set for current Prep students of what it truly means to be a “Man for Others”. They remind us all that the lessons of faith and service learned at the Prep can truly stay with us for a lifetime.

MISSION STATEMENT

As a Jesuit, college preparatory school, Fordham Prep's mission is to inspire young men to reflect, to question, to learn, to pray, to love, to serve, to lead. We have based our challenging curriculum and pursuit of human and academic excellence on a foundation of Catholic faith and principles. We seek to be one community created from a broad spectrum of ethnic, racial, geographic, and socioeconomic backgrounds. We strive to include qualified students of limited financial resources by providing substantial financial assistance. Our faculty and staff dedicate themselves to a caring and dynamic interaction with students both inside and outside the classroom, a characteristic of Jesuit education for over 450 years. We educate our students to be men for others: spiritually motivated, intellectually accomplished, and committed to promoting justice.
